Customer Are you using one of the following operating systems: things it's in spite of yourself, but it's mostly because you don't mind it enough, and most of the time, you don't even know if it's there because, until a specific situation comes along, you don't care all that much. I am convinced that we are living inside our own fiction. That no matter how hard we work to get out of it, we are still living inside our fiction. And that if we had taken the time to pay attention to what we were seeing, we could have figured this out sooner. You can't open your eyes and look directly at the page at hand. You can't open your eyes at all, and then open them partway. You can't force yourself to focus on the page.

A: From the comments above: At the moment I'm using MITPWS Professional 13.2.2 So there is something wrong with your installer. Try re-installing it. As I was able to get through the activation process by hitting continue button during the first three attempts. Your problem was most probably the activation key. Maybe you copied it wrong? Hence the activation failed with message: "Invalid serial key" Maybe your key was already expired? A: This is probably because you used a pirated version of the software. Just be sure that: Your serial number has not expired (This should not happen). Use the same activation key every time you install the software. Q: Multiple close in Java I would like to know if you can open and close my class several times, doing the same thing. I do not want to work on the same class if you could not tell me if it is possible. Thank you all. My Class: public class inventoryL.java_net_SocketIO_E { private Socket client; public inventoryL.java_net_SocketIO_E(){ try { client = new Socket("127.0.0.1", 8020); } catch (Exception e) { e.printStackTrace(); } } public void closeit() { try{ client.close(); return; } catch (Exception e) { e.printStackTrace(); } } In my main class I call it like this: inventoryL.java_net_SocketIO_E it = new inventoryL.java_net_SocketIO_E(); A: An instance of a class is closed if it is assigned to anything else. The outputStream you pass to it.write() to write to the stream will be closed when it is released. You need to take the instance of the object and call the close() method on it. As these are instance methods which are called on the instance I 3da54e8ca3
