120 Days of Sodom, or the School of Debauchery is a novel by French writer and nobleman Donatien Alphonse Franois, Marquis de Sade. The book was first published in 1785 in Paris. The plot is based on the story of life in the Italian city of Volterra in the 15th century. The title of the novel is not related to the work of the same name by the French writer Charles Pierre Baudelaire (although there is an opinion that Baudelaire used the pseudonym de Sade in his work). Name history According to de Sade himself, the title was suggested by the editor because the text was about two men "who engaged in debauchery for a full 120 days."
